What we're looking for

Experience is great, but personality matters more.

We're looking for people who enjoy being around others, want to learn and take pride in doing a great job.

You might be looking for your first job, something alongside college or university, or already have hospitality experience and want to join somewhere different.

You don't need to know everything on day one. Bring the right attitude and we'll teach you the rest.

More Than Just a Job

Great hospitality should be a great place to work too.

There's a real energy to life at Manor House. We work hard and expect a lot of ourselves, but we have fun doing it.

When Manor House succeeds, our people share in that success through staff tips and bonuses. Add paid breaks, meals on shift, free parking and some memorable staff parties, and there's plenty to enjoy along the way!
